TO: Distribution

SUBJECT: Update to September 11, 2013 Information Memorandum to the Food Industry

DATE: September 25, 2013

PURPOSE

The purpose of this update is to provide the food industry with additional information regarding our September 11, 2013, information memorandum entitled, "Use of Projectioneering LCC and FoodQuestTQ LLC Intellectual Property by the Food and Drug Administration without Permission."

Since that time, we have learned that the FDA's Food Defense Programs: Strategic Partnership Program Agroterrorism (SPPA) also makes unauthorized use of Projectioneering and FoodQuestTQ LLC intellectual property.

A full description of the subject FDA activity appears here:

BACKGROUND

1

In January 2013, FoodQuestTQ LLC advised that the FDA that they were using, without permission, intellectual property that is owned by Projectioneering LLC and reduced to practice for the food industry by FoodQuestTQ LLC.

On April 27, 2013, the Office of General Counsel, Health and Human Services (HHS-OGC) issued a legal opinion that there was no evidence that the FDA has improperly taken Projectioneering LCC and FoodQuestTQ LLC intellectual property to duplicate the FoodQuestTQ LLC suite of computerized risk management software tools.

A copy of the April 27, 2013, letter from HHS-OGC appears as an attachment to the report appears here: <http://www.nfpcportal.com/Portals/1/Technical%20Paper%20No%20%208%20-%205-9-2013.pdf>

THE POSITION OF PROJECTIONEERING LLC AND FOODQUESTTQ LLC

It is the position of Projectioneering LLC and FoodQuestTQ LLC that the FDA has:

1. Committed gross plagiarism of a program of research conducted by Dr. John Hnatio at The George Washington University during the period 2000 through 2006;

2. Taken without permission the ideas contained in Dr. Hnatio's research and a 2007 patent filing with the United States Patent and Trademarks Office (USPTO) and subsequent USPTO patent issuance (Complexity Systems Management Method, Patent No.: US 8,103,601 B2.)
3. Stolen a portfolio of twenty trade secrets developed to reduce the patent to practice for food risk management that were solely and exclusively owned by FoodQuestTQ LLC.

A copy of Dr. Hnatio's patent appears here:

FDA PROCESSES AND COMPUTER AUTOMATED TOOLS THAT USE FOODQUESTTQ INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY WITHOUT PERMISSION

FoodQuestTQ LLC contends that the FDA is intentionally using Projectioneering LLC and FoodQuestTQ LLC intellectual property, without permission, in the six FDA activities listed below that imitate FoodQuestTQ products. The FDA is now making the following products publicly available to the food industry free of charge.

1. The FDA Food Protection Plan
2. Food Defense Plan Builder
3. Food Defense Mitigation Strategies Database
4. iRisk
5. Food Related Emergency Exercise Boxed (FREE-B)
6. Post 2007 Updates to C.A.R.V.E.R. plus SHOCK
7. Strategic Partnership Program Agroterrorism (SPPA)
